

Personal Growth, Responsible Behavior, & Positive Outcomes (PRP) for Children & Adolescents

Overview

Services through Key Point's PRP for Children and Adolescents are designed to promote Personal growth, Responsible behavior and Positive outcomes for children and their families. Individual and group activities complement, support and strengthen the mental health (therapy and/or psychiatry) services the child is already receiving.

Professional staff provide a combination of individual and group activities at Key Point's sites and at the child's home or other appropriate community locations.

On Site (Key Point facility) and Off Site (home or community-based) services are family focused, individualized and based on the child's and the family's strength and resilience.

Specific goals are established, targeting identified needs based on information from the referring mental health professional, a comprehensive assessment and meetings with the child and his/her family or support team.

PRP staff routinely evaluate each child's progress and provide monthly summary reports to the primary therapist and other mental health professionals working with the child.

Services

Evaluation & Assessment - Upon admission to the program, trained staff meet face to face with the child and his/her family, guardian or caretaker to complete a functional skills assessment in order to identify each child's strengths, skills and specific needs.

Individual & Group Activities - Structured therapeutic activities are planned and offered throughout each month. Activities are designed to be fun for children so that they are engaged and actively work to reduce functional behavioral impairments and develop and/or restore age appropriate skills in a variety of areas, including:

- Self Care Skills
- Semi-Independent Living Skills
- Social/Interactive Skills
- Anger Management Skills
- Educational Skills
- Symptom Management Skills
- Accessing Community Resources
- Personal Safety Skills
- Maintaining Age-Appropriate Boundaries
- Time Management Skills

Eligibility

To be eligible for PRP services, a child must be:

- 5 - 17 years old
- Actively participating in therapy for a behavioral health diagnosis
- Referred by a licensed mental health professional
- Willing to participate in PRP services
- A Medical Assistance recipient

Referral Process

1. Submit a referral form, along with a Professional Assertion of Need (establishing clinical eligibility).
2. PRP staff will contact the family, guardian or caretaker to schedule a face to face screening meeting to evaluate the child's eligibility and the agency's ability to meet his/her behavioral health needs.

 For more information or to obtain referral forms, call one of the Child PRP offices or visit www.keypoint.org.

Baltimore Child PRP: 410-288-1714
Cecil Child PRP: 410-642-0271
Harford Child PRP: 443-625-1555

Mission Statement

The mission of Key Point Health Services is to provide quality behavioral health services in an environment committed to the journey of wellness and recovery.

